Bridging Agency and Information Technology

MISSION

Managing Complex Enterprise Transformations

Ventek Limited, Inc. is a professional services and information technology firm that helps government agencies manage complex enterprise transformations by efficiently translating strategies into action. These programs often involve dozens of system integrators. For major program initiatives that involve agency Director or congressional oversight, both government and Primes will engage Ventek to facilitate, orchestrate, and manage programs as a bridge between government policy and industry execution. The government reaches out to Ventek when it needs strong change management and help manage the complex relationships between government employees and defense contractors. Ventek teams with prime contractors are looking for a competitive advantage during acquisition. Since 2003, Ventek has served as a bridge between government and industry, supporting the integration of mission-critical systems and impacting hundreds of government employees.
